

Rhythm -- Music Scheduler

Chloe Li, Coco Li, Ramses Sanchez-Hernandez

Welcome page

- If you have an account already, you can sign in directly
- If you have already logged in on this device, you will be kept logging in unless you choose to log out
- If you don't have an account yet, you can sign up
- Once you are logged in or signed up, you will be directed to the home page

Home page

- First item on the tab bar
- If you have added activity through our app, your schedule table should be loaded
- You can always pull down to refresh your time table (past activities will be deleted)
- Swipe each activity to the left, you will have the option to delete the activity
- Swipe each activity to the right, you will have the option to edit the activity
- If you click directly on the activity
  - Timer: shows how much time there is left till the end of this activity
  - Music: you can play or pause music

Create activity page

- Second item on the tab bar
- You can choose to create a completely new activity or add from a saved template
- You will be taken to a detailed page by a segue based on your choice above
- If you choose to create a new activity
  - You are required to give the activity a name
  - You can give a description of the activity and assign it a color tag, but these are optional
  - You need to pick a start time for your activity, which cannot be a time in the past, and cannot be the same time as another existing activity
  - You need to pick an end time for your activity, which cannot be a time earlier than the start time
  - You should pick a piece of music from our list provided. You can listen to the music before you make your choice
  - You can choose whether you want to add this activity to the saved list. By default, it will be added
  - You can click on “back” if you don’t wish to add this activity
  - Or you can click on “Add to my Schedule” and your activity will be successfully added
  - Once you add the activity, a notification is set up and will remind you to come back to our app when your activity starts.

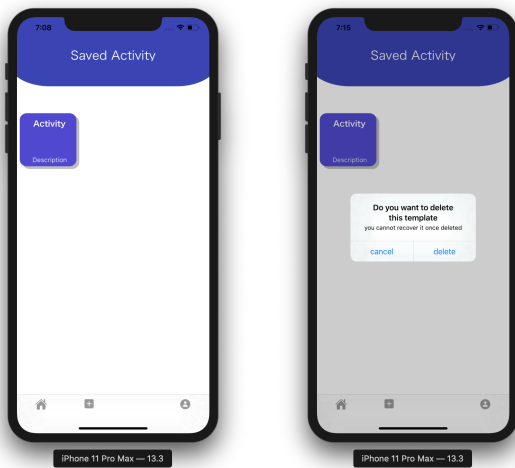

- If you choose to add from saved list
  - You can search with the name of an activity in the search bar
  - Once you found the item, click on it and the text in search bar should be updated
  - If this is the activity you want to choose, then click "✓". It won't be finally selected if you don't click this button
  - The color tag (if any) will be displayed as well
  - The time of the activity when created will be displayed and you can change that
  - An item created from the save list will not be saved again to the list
  - All other aspects are the same with "Create a new activity"

Display saved list page

- Third item on the tab bar
- This page displays the name and description of all the items in your saved list
- It will be automatically loaded when you log in

- If you want to delete an activity from the list, long press the cell and you can choose to delete this activity

User page

- Fourth item on the tab bar
- This page displays your user informations: profile picture, first name, last name, and email
- You can edit your first name, last name, and email
- You are given the option to log out of your current account
